Contents

Figures and Tables ix
Introduction 1

1 Women and Unions in Occupied Japan 14
   The Rapid Rise of Labor Militancy 17
   Women, Unions, and Occupied Japan 22

2 The Erotic and the Vulgar 30
   A Strike of Film Workers 33
   Propaganda 36
   Suppression 44
   Gendering the Nation 46
   Boogie Nights and Cross-Dressed Politicians 54

3 Wage Struggles and Struggle Politics 65
   The Takano Line 65
   Ōta Kaoru and the Spring Wage Struggle 70
   Institutionalizing the Struggle 73
   Women, Wages, and the Shuntō 82
   The Household Economics of the Shuntō 86

4 Teachers and Coal Wives 92
   The Anti-Base Struggle 98
   The “Lucky Dragon” Incident 101
   Mobilizing Coal Wives 104
   The 63-Day Strike 111
   One Hundred and Thirteen Days 114
   The Šáhyô Peace Movement 118
Contents

5 Family Unions

The “Woman Question”  124
The Union Family  129
(Re)gendering the Struggle  136
The Association of Sōhyō Housewives  142
Building Bridges  150

6 Federation Wives

Prelude to Conflict  163
Grassroots Militancy  165
Political Struggles  169
The Miike Woman  173
Mobilizing Women, Again  177
The 1960 Struggle  184
Jobs  187
Making Sense of Failure  188

Conclusion  195

Reference Matter

Bibliography  205
Index  221