Addison, Joseph, quotations from, 314n9
Adler, Cyrus, 151
adoption, 10
Agricultural and Commerce Ministry, 2, 85; Agricultural College and, 97; European travels and, 72, 74; industrial policy and, 80; opposition to militarism and, 270; patent laws and, 60–62; patent law travels and, 63, 66, 70; patents controversy and, 76–78; silver mining and, 100; Takahashi government and, 231
Agricultural and Forestry College, 41, 96–98 agriculture, 84–86, 317n21; commodity prices and, 5; constitutional government and, 234; economic effects and, 264, 267; industrial policy and, 80; opposition to militarism and, 270; patent law travels and, 64; service contracts and, 314n14; silver mining and, 100; world depression and, 249; World War I and, 212 anti-Japanese sentiment, 226; contemporary China and, 328n9; Takahashi writings and, 221, 223 anti–laissez faire speech, 54 anti-Semitism, 150, 152–54, 156, 323n33
Arai Seiichirō, 250
Araki Sadao, 5; fiscal policies and, 261; Manchuria and, 6; opposition to militarism and, 275–76; rise of militarism and, 270, 283; Saitō government and, 278–82
Arisugawa, Prince and Princess, 181
Army, 4; 1936 budget and, 288–92, 291; general staffs and, 272; industrial policy and, 80; Okada government and, 287–88, 293; proposal to abolish the general staff and, 220; railroad nationalization and, 190–91; Taishō Political Crisis and, 203; Takahashi government and, 225
Arthur, Chester A., 64
Asabuki Eiji, 129, 320
Ashigaru (foot soldier), 10–11, 13–14;
late-Edo education and, 15–18;
Fukui samurai and, 45; youthful influences and, 36
Asia: East Asian coalition and, 221; rise of militarism and, 270;
Takahashi’s travels in, 131;
Takahashi writings and, 223
assassination, 1, 4; autarchy and,
259–61; 1936 budget and, 292;
Hara’s, 224; Inoue’s, 258; Inukai’s, 261; memoirs and, 307;
Okada government and, 288;
Ökubo’s, 85; right to carry swords and, 314; Saijō government and, 281;
Takahashi line and, 296; world depression and, 239
Atago shrine, 11
autarchy, 259–61
autarky, 259–61; 1936 budget and, 290; rise of militarism and, 268–69
auto-didacticism, 2, 4–5; economic philosophy and, 302
Baba Eiichi, 253, 263
Baba Tatsui, 54
balanced budgets, 3–4, 171–72; 1936 budget and, 288–92; economic philosophy and, 305;
gold standard and, 241–42; industrial development and,
174; Okada government and,
286–87; opposition to militarism and, 275; positivists vs. negativists on, 200; Takahashi’s support for, 116; Takahashi’s views on, 140
Ballagh, James, 19
bankers, 121, 136; fifth Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 185–86, 196; Financial Panic of 1927 and, 236–37; on financial standards, 175; first Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 143–49, 151, 153; fiscal policies and, 255; fourth Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 178–80; Japanese domestic bonds and, 173; London bankers, 155; New York bankers, 155; postwar hard landing and, 217; qualities of, 133; rescuing of, 136; second Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 162; Takahashi’s 1898 trip to London and, 131–33; third Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 170–71; world depression and, 251. See also Schiff, Jacob, 149
Bankers Magazine, 160
Bank of Japan: archive of, 7; as a “City Bank,” 137–39; construction of new building and, 117–20; Financial Panic of 1927 and, 235–37; Fukai and, 331; gold standard and, 242–43; Institute for Monetary and Economic Studies, 308; hikiuke system of selling treasury bonds, 239, 263, 267; interest rates and, 138, 258–59; Ishibashi and, 331; lending fund and, 128; low-interest loans and, 127; monetary policies and, 252–53; Okada government and, 286–87; opposition to militarism and, 274–76; postwar hard landing and, 218; Sino-Japanese War and, 122–23; Takahashi as governor of, 201; Takahashi as vice governor of, 136–37; Takahashi government and, 225, 231; Takahashi joins, 115, 117; Takahashi reports on bonds to, 167; underwriting of currency by, 134; Western Branch of, 120–22; world depression and, 238–39; Yokohama Specie Bank and, 130

Bank of Taiwan: Financial Panic of 1927 and, 236–37

Banno Junji: Takahashi writings and, 222

Baring, Hugo, 144

Baring, John (Lord Revelstoke), 144; decorations granted to, 155, 167; fifth Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 184, 186; first Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 144, 148–50, 153–55, 157; decoration awarded to, 324, 44; second Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 161–64; third Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 168, 171

Baring Brothers, 7; first Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 144, 148–49, 153; second Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 161, 163–64; third Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 168. See also Revelstoke, John Baring

Baring Journals, 154, 163, 168

Barragh, Mrs., 26, 37

Beeton, Henry R., 148

“beggar thy neighbor,” 265–66; Saxonhouse and, 329, 44

Bible, 43, 46, 313

“Bill to Control Extreme Social Movements”: Takahashi government and, 230

birth, 9

Bombay, 131

bonds, 3, 5, 164, 173, 177; Baring Brothers and, 324, 44; 1916 budget and, 288, 290–92; economic development and, 176; economic effects of, 263, 265, 267; economic philosophy and, 304; fiscal policies and, 262; foreign borrowing and, 321, 324; Fukai and, 312, 45; interest rates and, 259; Ishibashi and, 312, 39; Kuhn, Loeb and, 325, 27; Okada government and, 286–87, 293; opposition to militarism and, 274–76; possible government bonds of 1898, 130, 132–35; productivity and, 206; railroad nationalization and, 190–91; restructuring of, 174–75, 183–84, 186, 196, 198–99; Saitō government and, 279–81; Sherman and, 323, 33; Sino-Japanese War and, 122–23; Takahashi line and, 294; Takahashi on repayment of, 174–75; war vs. productive loans and, 312

bonds, Russo-Japanese, fifth set (November 1905 & March 1907): issuance of, 197; Japanese government requests, 183–84; negotiations for, 184–86, 196–97; Schiff and, 196–99; terms of, 186–87
bonds, Russo-Japanese, first set (May 1904): Japan’s need for, 142; Schiff’s role in, 149–54, 156–57; Takahashi lays groundwork for, 143–46; terms negotiated, 146–48, 155. See also restructuring bonds, Russo-Japanese, second set (November 1904), 157–65; issuance of, 165; negotiations for, 160–64; Takahashi’s networking for, 157–60 bonds, Russo-Japanese, third set (March 1905): issuance of, 171; Japan’s fiscal health and, 169; terms of, 170
Booth, Edwin, 70
borrowing: economic philosophy and, 304–5; fiscal responsibility and, 174; gold standard and, 122, 130; industrial development and, 175–76; Japan’s capacity for, 188; positivists vs. negativists on, 199–200; productivity and, 206; railroad nationalization and, 190; risks of, 169; Sino-Japanese War and, 123; Takahashi’s view on, 171–72
Britain: Anglo-American framework, 142, 156–57, 172; economic philosophy and, 300; Anglo-American-Japanese alliance, 226; autarchy and, 259; 1936 budget and, 290; China and, 207–9; colonialism of, 131; developing patent laws and, 61; economic order and, 195–96; economic philosophy and, 304–5; English language and, 18, 20; European travels and, 72–73, 75; financial standards of, 157–58; gold standard and, 241–44; Hara government and, 215; imperialism and, 207–9; Japanese domestic bonds and, 173; Japanese imperialism and, 122; neutrality and, 321n6; patent law travels and, 65–66; patents controversy and, 78; Pax Britannica and, 130; rise of militarism and, 268–69, 271–72, 283; Russo-Japanese War and, 142, 146, 153; Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 144; Saitō government and, 281–82; Takahashi government and, 226–27; world depression and, 247, 250; world order of, 189, 208–9; during World War I, 206–7
Browne, John Ross: indentured servitude and, 29–30; whaling and, 313n9
Browne family: indentured servitude and, 29–30; patent law travels and, 64
Buckingham Palace, 181
Buddhism: death and, 297; Ichijō and, 53–54; Kiyoko and, 12
budget of 1920, 218
budget of 1922, 227
budget of 1932, 263
Index

budget of 1933, 275, 277; Saitō government and, 281
budget of 1934, 294; Saitō government and, 278, 280–82
budget of 1935, 279; Okada government and, 286 budget of 1936, 279; military spending and, 288–92; Takahashi line and, 295 budgets, 3–4, 171–72; 1934 conflict over, 332n4; cooperative process and, 280, 291; economic philosophy and, 305; frugality and, 245; gold standard and, 241–42; industrial development and, 174; Okada government and, 286–87; opposition to militarism and, 273–77; parliament and, 202; positivists vs. negativists on, 200; postwar hard landing and, 217–18; rise of militarism and, 269–71; Saitō government and, 278, 281; Takahashi line and, 294–98, 297; Takahashi’s proposed (1914), 205–6
Burchard, Ludwig, 162 bureaucracy, 2, 204–5; economic philosophy and, 303; opposition to militarism and, 274; patent law travels and, 66; rise of militarism and, 268; Takahashi government and, 227
Byas, Hugh, 260
Cameron, Ewen, 146, 159; first Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 148–50, 154; second Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 160, 162 capital, 183, 227–29, 262; Agricultural College and, 97; economic growth and, 116; gold standard and access to, 127; industrial development and, 175–76; industrial policy and, 81; interest rates and, 201; Japan’s reliance on foreign, 188, 195; opposition to militarism and, 272–73; silver mining and, 100, 102, 110–13, 113; Sino-Japanese War and, 123; Takahashi’s views on, 138–39, 222–23; Yokohama Specie Bank as provider of, 128, 135–36
Cassel, Ernest, 7, 141; Brazilian loan and, 159; decorations granted to, 155; English royalty and, 153, 180–81; fifth Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 184; first Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 148, 150, 152–55; Inoue and, 323n28; Japan’s recognition of, 195; second Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 163; Takahashi meets, 167
Castle Brothers: silver mining and, 107
China: anti-Japanese sentiment in, 125–26; autarchy and, 260; Battle of the Yalu River and, 312n22; Browne as Minister to, 29; Brownes and, 30; decorates Takahashi, 199; economic phi-
Index

- losophy and, 300, 305; fiscal policies and, 261; gold standard and, 240–41; Hara government and, 214–15; indemnity and, 182; Nine Powers Treaty and, 226; Okada government and, 285; opposition to militarism and, 273; rise of militarism and, 268–69, 271–72, 283; Saitō government and, 280–82; Sino-Japanese War and, 122–26; Takahashi government and, 226, 231; Takahashi’s travels in, 131; Takahashi views on, 221–24; Tanaka government and, 237; trade and, 134–36; trade with, 136–37; world depression and, 239, 250–51; World War I and, 206–10
- China memorandum (1921), 221–24
- Chinese laborers: American voyage and, 22; indentured servitude and, 27–29
- Christianity, 49; Verbeck and, 43, 46
- Chūshingura, 85
- City Bank: Yokohama Specie Bank as, 134–36
- City Bank: Bank of Japan as, 137–39
- civilian control of the military, 2, 210–11; 219–20; economic philosophy and, 306; rise of militarism and, 270–73; Saitō government and, 279
- class, 44, 305; English language and, 20
- classical financial policies, 241–43; rise of militarism and, 269
- Cohen, Naomi, 152
- collective bargaining, 225
- colonialism, 2; Great Britain and, 131; of loan terms, 148, 163
- Colorado (ship), 22
- competition, 211; economic philosophy and, 300; Hara government and, 215; rise of militarism and, 272; Takahashi government and, 226–27
- Conder, Josiah, 48, 31972
- condescension toward Japanese, 65, 69
- Coney Island, 134
- consumers, 189, 263–67, 281; economic philosophy and, 303, 305; fiscal policies and, 255; gold standard and, 240, 244; overconsumption, 138; postwar hard landing and, 216–17; Takahashi government and, 225; world depression and, 249
- contractionism, 199–200; fiscal policies and, 251, 253, 262; frugality and, 246; gold standard and, 240–41; interest rates and, 257; world depression and, 249–50
- cooperative budget process, 289, 291
- Copyright and Patent Commissioner, 62
- Copyright and Patent Office, 41
- coprywright laws, 5, 60, 139; American travels and, 64–70; controversy over, 76–78; development of, 62; European travels and, 70–75
- court rank, 169
- Crowley, James, 260
custums duty revenues, 157, 174; first Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 155; as hypothesis, 142, 147, 162–63, 165

Daigaku Nankō, 14, 41, 301; education and, 50; English language and, 53; Mori and, 34; Verbeck and, 42, 44–46; youthful influences and, 37

Danjūrō IX, 70

Date Yoshikuni, 15; return to Japan and, 35; samurai and, 311n11 deficit, 186, 188–89, 191, 200, 211–12; forgiveness of, 129; of Takahashi, 115 defcentralization, 5; Agricultural College and, 98; economic philosophy and, 303–4; Takahashi government and, 229–30; decorations, 155, 159, 167–68, 199; granted to Schiff, 194 defense: opposition to militarism and, 274; Saitō government and, 280; Takahashi’s views on, 123, 210–11 deficits, 3, 6; 1936 budget and, 288; frugality and, 245–46; interest rates and, 258; Okada government and, 293; rise of militarism and, 269; Takahashi line and, 294–95 deflation, 3, 6, 138; capital and, 113; early career and, 58; economic effects and, 266; fiscal policies and, 253–54; gold standard and, 240, 242–44; industrial policy and, 80; world depression and, 238, 249 demand, 3, 189; economic effects and, 267; economic philosophy and, 306; fiscal policies and, 262; interest rates and, 259 democracy, 5, 82, 118, 201–5; anti-laissez faire speech and, 54; autarchy and, 260; constitutional government and, 231–35; gold standard and, 240; Hara government and, 214–15; industrial policy and, 79; Kato government and, 328n28; Saitō government and, 261; Okada government and, 287; violence and, 213

Den Kenjirō, 231
deforestation, 2–6, 238–39, 247–51; autarchy and, 259–61; career experiences and, 41; economic recovery from, 263–67; economic philosophy and, 303–4; fiscal policies and, 252–56, 261–62; frugality and, 244–46; Galbraith and, 311n46; gold standard and, 239–43, 246; industrial policy and, 80; interest rates and, 257–59; Ishibashi on gold standard and, 330n27; Okada government and, 286; opposition to militarism and, 274, 276; postwar hard landing and, 216–19; rise of militarism and, 268–69; world depression and, 251

Deutsch-Asiatische Bank, 187 devaluation, 3; autarchy and, 259; early career and, 58; economic effects and, 265–67; fiscal policies and, 256; interest rates and, 258; world depression and, 239 development, 84–85, 174–76; advocacy of, 2; Agricultural College and, 96–98; China and, 208–10; constitutional government and, 233–34; economic philosophy and, 302; free trade and, 55; frugality and, 246; gold standard and, 122, 240; industrial policy and, 79; local, 122; military spending and, 210–11; opposition to militarism and, 273; patent law travels and, 63; rise of militarism and, 268; silver mining and, 100, 108; Takahashi government and, 226, 229; Takahashi’s views on, 142, 174–76; Takahashi writings and, 221–23; taxes and, 206; world depression and, 250; World War I and, 211–12

diaries: 1904 London and New York volume of: 145–47, 148; on the press, 160; on Schiff, 149–51; on second Russo-Japanese War bonds, 159–64; memoirs and, 307; Fujimura and, 322n10; rise of militarism and, 320n22; of Schiff’s travels, 193 dinner parties, 149, 151; given by Schiff, 194; for Takahashi, 169, 180; at the Savoy Hotel, 187
dirigisme: industrial policy and, 79 disarmament: gold standard and, 241; Saitō government and, 278; Takahashi line and, 294; Takahashi government and, 225–26; Washington Naval Disarmament Conference and, 224, 226–27

Dōshisha, 300
Duan Qirui, 210
Duke, James Buchanan, 166
Dun, William, 132, 145–46; decorations received by, 159
Durée, Schuyler, 134; patent law travels and, 69; youthful influences and, 3

Economic Consequences of Mr. Churchill, The (Keynes), 244 economic philosophy, 5; of Takahashi, 174–76, 189, 299–306; Russo-Japanese War and, 171–72; Takahashi’s development of, 140, 142
Economist (Tokyo), 253–54
Edo, 13; education and, 15–18; English language and, 19; Late-Edo education and, 16; Minato Ward in, 311n4; youthful influences and, 38
Edo Castle, 9–10, 12; Tokugawa shogunate and, 31
Edo Tokyo Museum, 321n31 education: career experiences and, 41; democratization and, 202–3; domain schools and, 11; economic philosophy and, 304; English language and, 53; on finance and prejudice, 166; localism and, 3; Meiji Restoration and, 47; networking and, 158; patent law travels and, 63–64; rise of militarism and, 268; Russo-Japanese War and, 136, 188; Sino-Japanese War and, 122; Takahashi government and, 225, 227, 229–30; Takahashi’s on-the-job, 117, 120, 128–29;
Verbeck and, 42–44; youthful influences and, 37
Education Ministry, 56–57, 59;
English language and, 51–52; patent laws and, 60; Takahashi government and, 231
Edward VII, 150–51, 153, 155; Takahashi’s audience with, 180–81 election of 1932, 295
Eliot, Charles William, 210, 279, 327 emperor, 169; 1936 budget and, 291;
cult of, 284; fall of Tokugawa shogunate and, 32; Meiji Restoration and, 122; opposition to militarism and, 275; Saitō government and, 280–81; Schiff and, 193–94; Takahashi line and, 296–98; Takahashi reports on bonds to, 167
Emperor Organ Theory Affair:
Okada government and, 287–88
empire, 273; rise of militarism and, 272; shame and, 300–28; Takahashi line and, 294; Takahashi’s views on, 122, 126, 131, 172 employment, 3; fiscal policies and, 262; industrial policy and, 81;
Postwar hard landing and, 218;
world depression and, 239
English language, 4–5, 14, 21; career experiences and, 41–42; early career and, 57; economic philosophy and, 301; European travels and, 71; fluency in, 50–53; indentured servitude and, 27, 29; Karatsu school and, 47–48;
Late-Edo education and, 18; letters and, 50; patent law travels and, 70; servitude contract and, 26; study of, 18–21; Takahashi’s ease with, 131, 145, 180; teaching and, 35; Van Reeds and, 24–26; youthful influences and, 36–38
Europe, 1, 71–75, 84; developing patent laws and, 62; economic philosophy and, 304; Hara government and, 214–15; imperialism and, 126; patent law travels and, 61, 70–74; patents controversy and, 76; Peru and, 99; postwar hard landing and, 216; rise of militarism and, 271–72; Russo-Japanese peace treaty and, 182; Saitō government and, 282; Takahashi’s travels in, 130–33; world depression and, 247–48; youthful influences and, 37 exchange rate, 118, 266–67; fiscal policies and, 253, 255–56; frugality and, 246; gold standard and, 243–44; interest rates and, 257; policies on, 6; for silver- and gold-based currency, 136–37; world depression and, 251; Yokohama Specie Bank and, 128 exports, 3, 84, 175; budget balancing and, 200; economic growth and, 115–16; European travels and, 75; fiscal policies and, 252–53, 255–56; free trade and, 55; frugality and, 246; gold standard and, 129, 243; inexpensive capital and, 135; Inoue’s shrinking imbalance of, 330–29; interest rates and, 258; patent law travels and, 64–65; postwar hard landing and, 216–17;
Takahashi’s views on, 139; Takahashi writings and, 222; trade deficit and, 205; world depression and, 238, 247–48, 250; World War I and, 212; Yokohama Specie Bank and, 128 farming, 3, 55; economic philosophy and, 303; European travels and, 75; fiscal policies and, 262; Kōgo iken and, 87–92; Sino-Japanese War and, 123; world depression and, 248–49

February 26th Rebellion, 290–92; Takahashi line and, 296–98

Finance Ministry, 3–4, 6, 85, 238–39, 247–51; autarky and, 259–61; 1936 budget and, 288–92; Financial Panic of 1927 and, 235; fiscal policies and, 252–56, 261–62; frugality and, 244–46; gold standard and, 239–43, 246; interest rates and, 257–59; 1936 budget and, 288–94; opposition to militarism and, 273, 275, 277; patents controversy and, 77; postwar hard landing and, 216; rise of militarism and, 268–72; Saitō government and, 278–79, 281; Takahashi government and, 225; Takahashi line and, 294–98

Financial Panic of 1927, 235–37; Okada government and, 284

firebomb raids of 1945, 308

fiscal policies, 3, 5, 238–39, 247–51; after Russo-Japanese War, 183; autarky and, 259–61; 1936 budget and, 291; contraction vs. growth in, 199–201; efficacy of, 263–67; fiscal policies and, 252–56, 261–62; frugality and, 244–46; gold standard and, 239–43, 246; industrial policy and, 81; interest rates and, 257–59; national defense and, 211; political cycle and, 331–35; postwar hard landing and, 219; rise of militarism and, 268–72; Saitō government and, 282; of Takahashi, 171–72, 174–76; of Takahashi as finance minister in the Yamamoto government, 205–6; Takahashi’s views on, 138–39

Fletcher, Horace, 63–65

foreign exchange: economic growth and, 115–16; importing/exporting and, 134; Takahashi’s views on, 118–39; Yokohama Specie Bank and, 135

foreign policy, 2, 208; antagonizing of West and, 125; anti-laissez-faire speech and, 54; autarchy and, 259–60; civilian control of, 211, 220, 225, 300; constitutional government and, 234; economic philosophy and, 300, 305; fiscal policies and, 261; gold standard and, 241; Hara government and, 215; opposition to militarism and, 274; rise of militarism and, 271–72; Saitō government and, 279–80; Takahashi line and, 294; Takahashi writings and, 219–24; world depression and, 251

France, 83–85, 184–85; banks in, 129; bonds and, 192; 1936 budget and, 290; decorates Takahashi, 199; European travels and, 72–74; fifth Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 197–98; gold standard at new par and, 244;
Liaodong leasehold and, 124–25;
Postwar hard landing and, 216;
Takahashi’s travels in, 133
Fraser, A. J., 132, 146; decorations received by, 159
Fraser and Chalmers: silver mining and, 105, 107 free trade, 55; anti–laissez faire speech and, 54
frugality, 138, 190, 205; fiscal policies and, 254; Hamaguchi and, 328; shame and, 330
Fujii Noriko, samurai education and, 313
Fujii Sanenobu, 286–87
Fujimura Shirō, 84; Peru and, 98–99; silver mining and, 112
Fukai Eigo, 143, 146, 151; advice to Takahashi, 252–53; Bank of Japan bond purchases and, 331/40; constitutional government and, 232, currency growth and, 258; economic philosophy and, 306; “three birds with one stone,” 263
fukoku kyōhei (“rich country, strong army”), 38
Fukui Kazuemon (Fukuiya), 45–46, 55–56
Fukuzawa Yukichi, 19, 48, 52, 127, 300–1; late-Edo education and, 17
funeral, Takahashi’s, 297–98
Galbraith, John Kenneth, 266, 331/46
Ga Reishī, 82
geisha, 44–46, 68, 315
geisha-house analogy, 244–46, 306; Nakamura and, 329/17 general staff system, 215, 219–20, 225
Genoa Conference (1922): gold standard and, 243
genrō (elder statesmen), 61–62, 84, 192, 224, 229–30; constitutional government and, 232; democratization and, 203
Germany, 74–75, 264, 304; fifth Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 185; on financial standards, 175; fourth Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 178–80; Liaodong leasehold and, 124–25; patents controversy and, 77; second Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 162; Takahashi’s travels in, 133; third Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 170–71
Gilman, Daniel Coit, 70
Glover, Thomas, 131
gold standard, 3, 239–43, 246; bonds and, 146–47; borrowing and, 155, 169; capital and, 113; economic effects of leaving, 266; Financial Panic of 1927 and, 235; fiscal policies and, 252–56; frugality and, 246; interest rates and, 257; Ishibashi on global depression and, 330/27; Japan joins, 129–30; Japan returns to, 239–43; negativists and, 200; Takahashi government and, 231; Takahashi’s support for, 116, 122, 124–27; Takahashi writings and, 223; world depression and, 239–47, 250–51
Index

Gold Standard Preparation Recession, 244; world depression and, 247
Gotō Shin’ichi, 4
Government by Assassination (Byas), 260 graduated income tax, 230, 305–6; primary task of government and, 299 grandmother, 18, 20–21, 59; youthful influences and, 37
Great Kantō Earthquake (1923), 67, 235; gold standard and, 240
Griffis, William Elliot, 4–5, 19, 48; early career and, 56; English language and, 51 growth, 199–201, 206; European travels and, 75; fiscal policies and, 262; fiscal stimulation and, 189; foreign exchange and, 134–35; frugality and, 246; gold standard and, 127; Hara government and, 214; Japanese unification and, 120; Okada government and, 284; positivists and, 199–200; Postwar hard landing and, 216–19; Takahashi government and, 230
Hara Takashi, 214, 305; assassination of, 224; constitutional government and, 232; fiscal policy of, 189; meets in Paris, 72; naval procurement scandal and, 205; as Prime Minister, 213; railroads and, 190, 206; Takahashi government and, 224–26, 229, 231; Takahashi writings and, 220–21; Yamamoto government and, 201–2, 204
Hariman, E. H., 179–80
Hashi Wakichirō, 34
Hatekeyama Yoshinari, 51
Hattori Company, 119
Hawley-Smoot Tariff Act (1930), 239
Hayama, 137
Hayashi Tadasu, 142–43; audience with Edward VII, 181; decorations and, 168; at dinner party for Takahashi, 187; English language and, 19, 52; Hepburn and, 321n3; second Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 164
Hammett, Dashiell, 330n19
hanbatsu, 318n25
Hammett, Dashiell, 330n19
Hammett, Dashiell, 330n19
Hammett, Dashiell, 330n19
Hayek, Friedrich, 300; Keynes and, 334
Heeren, Oscar, 39, 98–102; Peru and, 98; silver mine failure and, 108–13; silver operation and, 102–7; Tajima report and, 108–12
Hepburn, Clarissa, 4, 19, 37; Hayashi and, 321 n 3
Hepburn, James, 19
Hibiya Public Hall, 294
hikiuke method of selling treasury bonds, 239, 263, 267
Hill, Arthur, 151, 154; “accidental meeting,” 149; second Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 162
Hill, James, 166
Hirano Kiichirō, 284, 288; Saitō and, 332 n 21
Hiroshima, 122; Battle of the Yalu River and, 312 n 22
Hirota Kōki, 279, 282
Hongkong and Shanghai Bank (HSBC), 187, 195; exchange rates and, 118, 128; fifth Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 198; first Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 144, 146–49, 155; second Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 163–64; world depression and, 251. See also Cameron, Ewen. See also Townsend, A. M.
Honjō Shigeru, 281; 1934 budget conflict and, 332 n 4
Horie Kakuji (Takahashi Koretada), 13
House of Peers, 169, 233–34; fiscal policies and, 254; Hara government and, 216; interest rates and, 257; Okada government and, 28, 288; resignation from, 233; Takahashi government and, 230
House of Representatives, 201–2; constitutional government and, 232–33; Financial Panic of 1927 and, 216; fiscal policies and, 254; popular rule and, 328 n 28
Hygiene Bureau, 56
hypothecation, 146–47; Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 142, 155, 161, 177–79. See also security Ichijō Jūjirō, 32; Buddhism and, 53–54; indentured servitude and, 28–31; return to Japan and, 33–35; servitude contract and, 26; Van Reeds and, 24
illegitimate birth, 9
Imamura Takeo, 43, 58, 148; Agricultural College and, 97; fiscal policies and, 256; memoirs and, 307–8; Postwar hard landing and, 218; Takahashi government and, 224
imperialism, 2, 138; China and, 207–8; indemnities and, 181–82; Japan and, 122; Japanese, 126–27
Imperial Military Reserve Association, 260, 288
imports, 84, 128, 183; developing patent laws and, 61; fiscal policies and, 253; free trade and, 55; frugality and, 138; gold standard and, 129; inexpensive capital and, 135; Inoue’s shrinking imbalance of, 330 n 29; interest rates and, 201, 257; postwar hard landing and, 216; Takahashi government and, 230
Hongkong and Shanghai Bank (HSBC), 187, 195; exchange rates and, 118, 128; fifth Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 198; first Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 144, 146–49, 155; second Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 163–64; world depression and, 251. See also Cameron, Ewen. See also Townsend, A. M.
hashi's views on, 139; trade deficit and, 206; income, 3, 202, 205, 1936 budget and, 290; Hara government and, 214; interest rates and, 258; postwar hard landing and, 216–17; recovery from the depression and, 264–66; indemnity, 124–25, 130, 135; Russian, 174, 181–84, 196; indentured servitude, 29–31; Van Reeds and, 26–29; youthful influences and, 39–40; Industrial Bank of Japan, 135–36, 176; industrialization, 174–76, developing laws patent and, 60; European travels and, 74; free trade and, 55; gold standard and, 122; patent law travels and, 63, 66; silver mining and, 100, 102–3; World War I and, 212; inflammation, 4, 6, 127, 129, 196 budget and, 290; capital and, 113; early career and, 57, 267; economic philosophy and, 300; fiscal policies and, 252–54; Hara government and, 214; Ishibashi and, 331; negativists and, 200; Okada government and, 287; opposition to militarism and, 274; postwar hard landing and, 218; railroads and, 191; rise of militarism and, 269; Takahashi government and, 226–27; Takahashi line and, 297; World War I and, 212; infrastructure, 57, 115–16, capital and, 176; economic development and, 206; positions and, 218; World War I and, 212; Inoue Junnosuke, 131–32; assassination of, 258; autarchy and, 259–60; career experiences and, 41–42; debate with Takahashi, 248–52; English language and, 52; Takahashi eulogy for, 323; Financial Panic of 1927 and, 235; financial policy of, 138; fiscal policies and, 242–47; frugality as shame and, 330n28; gold standard and, 240, 242–44; fiscal policies and, 235; financial policy of, 197; Takahashi's views on, 138; Inoue Kaoru (Count), 5, 7, 82, 84; as finance minister, 130; fourth Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 177–78; meets with Schiff, 95; 194–95; patents controversy, 196.
and, 78; poem by, 169; possible 1898 bonds and, 133–35; railroad nationalization and, 190–91; requests Takahashi to raise funds, 142–43; silver mining and, 100; Takahashi reports on bonds to, 167; third Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 168
Inoue Kenkichi: Peru and, 99
Inoue Kowashi: patents controversy and, 77
Institute for Monetary and Economic Studies (Bank of Japan), 308 intellectual property, 60
Interior Ministry, 56, 84
internationalism, 38–39, 53, 82, 172, 222, 227; autarchy and, 259; constitutional government and, 234; economic philosophy and, 304; free trade and, 55; frugality and, 246; interest rates and, 257–58; militarism and, 272–73; Saitō government and, 280
internships: Agricultural College and, 97–98
Inukai Tsuyoshi, 240–41, 262; assassination of, 261; autarchy and, 259–60; world depression and, 251
Irving Fischer, 275
Ishibashi Tanzan, 306; Bank of Japan bond purchases and, 331/39; fiscal policies and, 253; global depression and, 330/27; gold standard and, 244; inflation and, 331/41; militarism and, 273, 283; Tokyo war crimes trials and, 329/6
Itō Hirobumi, 5, 36, 123–24, 130; on borrowing, 169; civil vs. military and, 316/1; developing patent laws and, 62; English language and, 51–53; Matsukata and, 125; meets with Schiff, 192, 195; Takahashi writings and, 223; third Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 168; values of, 195; Verbeck and, 42
Itō Sukeyuki, 22, 24; Battle of the Yalu River and, 312/22
Itō Yukio, 222, 231
Iwaya Tachitarō: Peru and, 99
J. P. Morgan bank, 150, 153, 166–67; gold standard and, 243; interest rates and, 257
Jackson, Thomas, 146; decorations granted to, 155, 167
“Japanese Village” exhibit, 65
Japan Peru Mining Corporation, 98–102; failure of, 108–13; operation of, 103–7; Tajima report and, 108–12
Jordan, David Starr, 210, 327/30
Jushōji temple, 57; Late-Edo education and, 17; letters home and, 23; youthful education and, 37
Kahn, Otto Herman, 158–59, 166;
Kuhn, Loeb and, 322n18
Kahn, Richard, 247, 306
Kaneko Kentarō, 166–67
Kaneko Naokichi, 235
Kanō School of painting, 9
Karatsu English-language school, 41; schoolmaster of, 47–49
Kataoka Naoharu, 235–37
Katō Takaaki, 2, 134, 193, 233; constitutional government and, 233; economic philosophy and, 304; liberalism of, 195; naval procurement scandal and, 205; railroad nationalization and, 190–91; rise of militarism and, 271; Twenty-One Demands and, 207–9; popular rule and 328n28
Katō Tomosaburō, 218, 231
Katsu Kaishū, 48, 52
Katsura Tarō, 7, 135; financial policy of, 138; Taishō Political Crisis and, 203–5; Takahashi reports on bonds to, 167; Takahashi’s letter to, 173–76; third Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 168–69
Kawabata Gyookusō, 193
Kawada Koichirō, 117, 119–20; letters to, 124–26; Mitsubishi and, 319n1; Sino-Japanese War bonds and, 123; Yokohama Specie Bank and, 127–28, 130
Kawamura family, 14–15; return to Japan and, 33
Kawamura Morifusa (Tanshō), 9–11, drinking with, 14
Kawashima Yoshiyuki: 1936 budget and, 288–94; Okada government and, 293; rise of militarism and, 270; Takahashi line and, 296–98
Kaya Okinori, 285; criticism by, 333n27; 1938 military budget increase and, 333n24
Keio Gijuku University, 54, 300; library of, 7
Kenseikai government, 228, 231–32; Financial Panic of 1927 and, 235, 237
Kenseikai party, 227, 233, 235; democratic politics and, 321n32; gold standard and, 241; political cycle and, 333n35
Keynes, John Maynard, 2, 4, 115; economic philosophy and, 300, 306; fiscal policies and, 254; gold standard and, 244; Hayek and, 334n7; world depression and, 238–39, 247
Keynesianism, 242, 244, 273
Kiddy, Arthur, 160
Kikuchi Takeo, 287
Kindleberger, Charles, 4
Kishinev, pogrom at, 153
Kishiwada domain, 11
Kitahara Kin, 9–10
Kiyoura Keigo, 135, 231–33
Kobayashi Michihiko, 22
Koch, W. M., 146, 159; decorations received by, 159; Japanese domestic bonds and, 173; Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 158, 179, 185
Kōgyō iken (Maeda), 79, 81, 88–91; debate on, 86–87, 92–95, 116, 128; economic philosophy and, 302
Koizumi Nobukichi, 127
Komura Jutarō, 181–82
Korea, 54, 199; rise of militarism and, 272; Schiff in, 194; Sino-Japanese War and, 122–26
Kōriki household, 12–13
Kubo Bunzō, 295–96
Kuhara Fusanosuke, 260, 288; Manchurian investments and, 333n22
Kuhn, Loeb of New York, 7; Japanese domestic bonds and, 173; Kahn and, 322n18; Morgan and, 167; Parr’s Bank and, 325n27; fifth Russo-Japanese War bonds, 186; first Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 149–51, 154–55; second Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 160–64; third Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 168, 171
Kuki Ryūichi, 66
Kuroda Hideo, 284
Kuroda Kiyotaka: patents controversy and, 76, 78
Kusama Kiyoko, 11–14, 16, 21–22
Kushida Manzō, 63
laissez faire, 54; industrial policy and, 80
Lamont, Thomas, 243, 257
land tax, 3, 225, 229–30, 304; Meiji Restoration and, 47
Langtry, Lillie, 145
Lansdowne, Lord, 154–55, 171
League of Nations, 215, 242; Takahashi line and, 294
letters, 23, 50, 53, 124–25; to Inoue Kaoru, to Katsura, 173–77; to Kawada, 125–26; of Lord Rothschild, 196–98; memoirs and, 308; of Schiff to Takahashi, 198–99; to Sone, 173, 175–76; by Takahashi to Schiff, 209–11
Levita, Arthur, 185; second Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 158, 160–62
Li Hongzhang, 124, 126
loans, 2, 36, 139, 332n7; Financial Panic of 1927 and, 235; gold standard and, 243; interest rates and, 259; rise of militarism and, 271; Russo-Japanese War and, 177; Takahashi investigates (1898), 130, 132–35; trust banks and, 167; Yokohama Specie Bank and, 127–28. See also bonds localism, 264, 303; education and, 3; Takahashi government and, 225, 229–30
London: European travels and, 70–74; fifth Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 186; first bonds and, 143–44; first Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 145–49; fiscal policies and, 252; fourth Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 179–80; gold standard and, 242; newspapers of, 159–60; New York bankers and, 155; Takahashi returns to, 168; Takahashi’s lessons from, 172; Takahashi’s second trip to, 131–33; third Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 170; Yokohama Specie Bank branch in, 135
London Standard (newspaper), 157, 160

M. M. Warburg and Company, 186. See also Warburg, Max
Macchiavello, Luis J., 319a26
Machida Chūji, 138; party politics and, 321n32
Maeda Masana, 5–6, 39, 84–88, 92–95, 98–102; developing patent laws and, 62; economic philosophy and, 301–5; industrial policy and, 79–83, 87–93; influence on Takahashi by, 79–81, 140; local development and, 122; patent law travels and, 63, 66; Peru and, 98–100; Peru project and, 116–17; rise of militarism and, 270; rural economic development and, 317n21; silver mine failure and, 113–17; silver operation and, 103–7; Specie Bank and, 128; Tajima report and, 108–12
Maejima Hisoka, 49
Makino Nobuaki, 63, 100
manager (Yokohama Specie Bank): Takahashi as, 127–30
Manchukuo: currency system of, 282–83
Manchuria, 3, 179–80, 182, 207, 210; autarchy and, 260; 1936 budget and, 291; constitutional government and, 235; fiscal policies and, 235, 261–63; Kuhara investments and, 333n22; Monroe Doctrine and, 330–31n36; opposition to militarism and, 273–75; rise of militarism and, 268, 270, 272, 283, 320n22; Saitō government and, 279, 282; Takahashi government and, 226; world depression and, 250–51 manufacturing, 264; world share of, 332n5 market information: economic philosophy and, 303; Road to Serfdom and, 334n1 markets, 113, 118; economic information and, 334n1; economic philosophy and, 300, 304; frugality and, 246; industrial policy and, 81; interest rates and, 257; open markets and, 195; reforms and, 56; rise of militarism and, 271–72; silver mining and, 100; Takahashi government and, 227
Marshall, Alfred, 57, 302 martial spirit, 325n1. See also militarism
Maruzen Bookstore, 60
Matsuda Masahisa, 135
Matsukata Masayoshi, 5, 113, 142; on wartime borrowing, 169; civil vs. military and, 316n1; early career and, 58; economic philosophy and, 302; as finance minister, 125; financial policy of, 138; financing foreign trade and, 312n21; gold standard and, 127, 129–30; industrial policy debate and, 79–81, 85–102; meets with Schiff, 192, 194–95; mining project and, 116; patent controversy and, 77; rise of militarism and, 270; supports Takahashi, 204; Takahashi government and, 224, 229–30; Takahashi reports on bonds to, 167
Matsuoka Yōsuke, 208
Matsuo Shigeyoshi, 7, 135, 139, 142;
first Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 155; gives party for Takahashi, 169; requests fifth
Russo-Japanese War bonds, 184; requests fourth Russo-Japanese War bonds, 176–77; on Russo-Japanese peace treaty, 182; second Russo-
Japanese War bonds and, 162;
Takahashi reports on bonds to, 167
Meiji Agricultural Method (Meiji nōbo), 84–85
Meiji Constitution of 1889, 202;
Okada government and, 287
memoirs, 7; on Bank of Japan, 117; European travels and, 72; indentured servitude and, 28; indiscretions in, 314/20; on Langtry, 145; patent laws and, 60;
patent law travels and, 63–64, 67; repetition in, 319/9; return to Japan and, 33; rise of militatatism and, 320/22; on Schiff, 151, 157; silver mining and, 102, 105–
6; sources for, 307–8; third Russo-Japanese War bonds and,
170–71; on travels in Asia, 131;
Van Reeds and, 25–26; Verbeck and, 44, 46; on Yokohama Specie Bank, 129; youthful influences and, 17
mentors, 4–5, 134, 149, 301–5
Metzler, Mark, 223
Mikado (Gilbert and Sullivan), 65, 68 militarism, 2, 6, 138, 210; barrier to,
1; 1936 budget and, 288–92, 294;
deification of Tōgō and, 325/1;
economic philosophy and, 300,
303; gold standard and, 240;
Manchurian Incident and rise of,
320/22; Okada government and,
283–87; opposition to, 273–77,
273–77, 280–83; rise of, 268–72,
290–94; Saitō government and,
273, 278–82; Takahashi line and,
294–98; Takahashi writings and,
219–20; world depression and,
239, 250–51; youthful influences and, 38–39
military, 2, 282; autarchy and, 259– 60; 1938 budget increase and,
322/24; constitutional government and, 235; fiscal policies and, 261; free trade and, 55; Hara government and, 214–15; postwar hard landing and, 217–19;
railroad nationalization and,
189–90; reform and, 204; recovery from the depression and,
263–64; Taishō Political Crisis
and, 203–4; Takahashi government and, 225–26; Takahashi writings and, 220, 223; world defense and, 251
military spending, 2, 4, 6, 188; after Russo-Japanese War, 200–1; 1936 budget and, 288–92; constitutional government and, 234;
democratization and, 202–4;
economic philosophy and, 305;
gold standard and, 241; national defense and, 210–11; Okada government and, 284, 287;
postwar hard landing and, 218;
rise of militarism and, 269–72; Saitō government and, 278, 281; Takahashi’s first term as finance minister and, 206; Takahashi government and, 226–27 mining: development of in Kyushu, 175; Peru project, 98–114.
See also silver mining
Minobe Tatsukichi: Okada government and, 287–88; Takahashi line and, 295
Minseitō party, 138; democratic politics and, 321 n 32; fiscal policies and, 254, 261; gold standard and, 239–47; Okada government and, 286; rise of militarism and, 269; Takahashi government and, 231; Takahashi line and, 295 missionaries, 4; distrust of Verbeck and, 316 n 9; economic philosophy and, 301; English language and, 19; McCurdy and, 50–51; Verbeck and, 43
Mita Agricultural Training Center, 85
Mitani Taichirō: Takahashi writings and, 222
Mitchell, W. Foot, 146
Mitsubishi Corporation, 130–31; economic philosophy and, 302; founders of, 319 n 1; patent law travels and, 63; world depression and, 251
Mitsubishi Chūzō, 284–85, 294, 303; Saitō government and, 278
Mitsui Bank, 251
Mitsui Corporation, 85, 117, 123; economic philosophy and, 302
Miwa Ryōichi: world depression and, 249 monetary policy, 238–39, 247–51; autarky and, 259–61; contraction vs. growth in, 199–201; economic efficacy and, 263–67; economic growth and, 115–16; frugality and, 244–46; gold standard and, 239–43, 246; interest rates and, 257–59; political parties and, 321 n 32; postwar hard landing and, 218–19; Takahashi line and, 295; world depression and, 238–39;
monopoly finance capitalism, 269
Monroe Doctrine, 260; Manchuria and, 330–31 n 36
Morgan, J. P., 150, 153, 166–67; gold standard and, 243; interest rates and, 257
Mori Arinori, 51–53; assassination threats and, 314 n 1; developing patent laws and, 62; industrial policy and, 81; return to Japan and, 33–34; Verbeck and, 42, 45
Mori Kaku, 256, 260
Morioka, 232
“Movement to Protect Constitutional Governments, The,” first, 204; second, 232 multiplier effect, 247, 303
Murray, David, 4, 137; early career and, 56; economic philosophy and, 302; English language and, 51–53; patent laws and, 60; youthful influences and, 36
Mutsu Munemitsu, 82, 123–24
Nagasaki, 81–83, 130; Verbeck and, 42
Nagayo Sensai, 56–57
Nakahashi Tokugorō, 230–31
Nakamigawa Hikojirō, 117
Nakamura Masanori, 249, 267
Nakamura Takafusa, 244, 329n11; geisha-house analogy and, 329n7
Nakashōji Ren, 191
National City Bank, 153, 176; world depression and, 251
“National Defense and Foreign Policy” (Takahashi), 211
National Diet Library, 7; diaries and, 322n10; memoirs and, 308 nationalism, 1, 84; autarchy and, 260; Chinese, 125, 208; constitutional government and, 235; economic form of, 172; gold standard and, 243; industrial policy and, 80; Japan and, 163; Japanese, 208; patent law travels and, 65, 69; rise of after World War I, 214–16; rise of militarism and, 268–69, 272; Saitō government and, 278; of Takahashi, 126, 128, 172, 182, 209; Takahashi government and, 226; Takahashi writings and, 221, 223; youthful influences and, 38–39
nationalization, of railroads, 189–92
Natsume Sōseki, 71
Navy, 4, 211; 1934 budget conflict and, 332n4; general staffs and, 220, 272; gold standard and, 129, 241; Okada government and, 285; opposition to militarism and, 274, 277; procurement scandal and, 205; Russo-Japanese War and, 142, 176; Saitō government and, 278–81; Taishō Political Crisis and, 203; Takahashi government and, 224; warships and, 157; Washington Naval Disarmament Conference and, 224, 226–27
negativists, 199–201, 206–7
new bureaucrats, 284, 288
New Par Gang of Four: gold standard and, 244
New York City, 59; fifth Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 196; as financial capital, 156; first Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 143–44, 151, 153; fourth Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 179; gold standard and, 242–43; London bankers and, 155; patent law travels and, 64–66; second Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 162–65; Takahashi’s lessons from, 172; Takahashi’s travels to (1898), 134; Takahashi’s visits, 166–67, 170; third Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 171; world depression and, 239, 247–49
Nishihara loans, 210, 215; rise of militarism and, 272; Takahashi’s opposition to, 221
no drama, 312n22
noren (“shop curtains”), 61
Oakland, California, 4, 21, 26; indentured servitude and, 27, 29–30
Odaka Kōnosuke, 249
Ogata Kōan, 81
Ohkawa estimates, 265
Ohkawa, Masazo, 200
Okada Keisuke, 289, 292, 331f, 32; Okada government and, 283–87, 294–95; opposition to militarism and, 276–77; Saitō government and, 278
Okimi (geisha), 46, 68, 315f
Ōkubo Toshimichi, 18, 63, 83–85; Verbeck and, 42
Ōkuma Shigenobu, 127, 135, 205; early career and, 58; on Japanese debt, 186; Verbeck and, 42, meets Schiff, 192–94
Ōkura Trading Company, 118
Omote-machi, 137
"Opinion Concerning the Establishment of East Asian Power, An" (Takahashi), 221–24
"Opinion for Direct Trade, An" (Maeda), 86
Opinions on Promoting Industry (Kōgyō iken) (Maeda), 72, 79, 81, 88–91; debate on, 86–87, 92–95, 116, 128; economic philosophy and, 302
oral fluency, in English, 19–20, 52
"Orders concerning Selling Treasury Bonds," 143
Osaka English Language School, 59, 35
Ōsumi Mineo, 321f; Saitō government and, 278–81
Ōta Eijirō, 19–20
Ōuchi Hyōe, 6; Takahashi line and, 297
Our Journey to Japan (Schiff), 326f
Ōwara Shindayū, 19, 21, 57; Late-Edo education and, 17–18; shogun and, 311f; Van Reeds and, 25; youthful influences and, 36
Ozaki Yukio, 39, 193
Panmure Gordon: See Koch
Paris, 72–73, 84–85
Paris Commune, 83
Paris World Exhibition (1878), 84–85
parliament (Diet), 192; budget debate with Inoue, 254–57; budget-making process and, 277; democratization and, 201–4; fiscal policies and, 262; frugality and new building, 245; rise of parties and, 240–41
Parr, Cecil F., 146; decorations granted to, 155, 167; at dinner party for Takahashi, 187; first Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 155
Parr’s Bank, 7; British neutrality and, 321f; development of, 320f; dinner party for Takahashi and, 187; fifth Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 186, 198; first Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 145–49, 155; Japan’s recognition of, 195; Kuhn, Loeb and, 325f; orders from Sone and, 324f; second Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 160–61, 163–64; Shand and, 132, 144, 323f. See also Shand, Alexander Allan
Pataki, Hugo, 75
patent laws, 5, 59–64, 70–74, 139; controversy over, 76–78; economic philosophy and, 302; first laws for, 315n1; International tour and, 65–69, 72–75; United States Patent Office and, 316n12
Patents Commissioner, 41, 77, 101
Patrick, Hugh, 6
Peru project, 98–102; aftermath of, 115–17; early career and, 59; failure of, 113–14; operation of, 103–7; Tajima report and, 108–12 poetry, 35, 137; silver mining and, 106; for Takahashi, 169 political parties, 190, 201–5, 213; autarchy and, 259; constitutional government and, 231–32, 234; democratic politics of, 321n32; democratization and, 202–5; fiscal policies and, 261–62; gold standard and, 241–42; Okada government and, 284–85; opposition to militarism and, 274; political cycle and, 333n35; rise of militarism and, 268, 271; Takahashi government and, 224, 230; Takahashi writings and, 220. See also party government Portsmouth peace treaty, 271 positive economic policy, 171–72, 189, 199–201, 206; political cycle and, 333n35; rise of militarism and, 269 postwar hard landing, 216–19; Financial Panic of 1927 and, 235–37
“Private Proposal to Restructure the Takahashi Cabinet, A,” 225–26
Privy Council, 202, 204–5; Financial Panic of 1927 and, 236; fiscal policies and, 252; Takahashi government and, 225 productivity, 2–3, 206; constitutional government and, 233; fiscal policies and, 255, 262; industrial policy and, 81; interest rates and, 257–59; Okada government and, 284; politics of, 284; postwar hard landing and, 218; primary task of government and, 299; Takahashi government and, 226–31; world depression and, 249
protectionism, 54–55; industrial policy and, 80 Psmith in the City (Wodehouse), 322n15 public works: fiscal policies and, 262; gold standard and, 243
Pure Theory of Modern Trade, The (Marshall), 57
Qingdao, 206, 208; criticism of Tanaka and, 237; Takahashi government and, 226 radicalism: constitutional government and, 232, 234; Takahashi government and, 225, 230 railroads: Hara and, 206; Harriman and, 179–80; as hypothecation, 146, 161–63, 177; in Manchuria, 207; nationalization of, 176, 189–92, 271; Schiff and, 197; silver mining and, 101
raw materials, 55; rise of militarism and, 272, 283; Russo-Japanese War and, 188, 195; recession of 1920–22, 216–19
Red Harvest, The (Hammett), 330 regional economic development: economic philosophy and, 302–4; patent law travels and, 65; rise of militarism and, 270; Takahashi government and, 229–31 religious toleration, 53
restructuring of Russo-Japanese War bonds, 183–84, 186, 198
Revelstoke, John Baring (Lord), 141; decorations granted to, 155, 167; fifth Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 184, 186; first Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 144, 148–50, 153–55, 157; highest decoration awarded to, 324
Japan’s recognition of, 195; second Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 161–64; third Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 168, 171 right of supreme command, 220, 280 riots, 204, 213; over Russo-Japanese peace treaty, 183–84
Road to Serfdom (Hayek), 334
Roosevelt, Theodore, 177, 197
Rothschild, Alfred (London), 141; first Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 146; on Russian reparations, 172; second Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 161
Rothschild, James de (Paris), 190 Rothschild, Lord Nathaniel (London), 141; at dinner party for Takahashi, 187; fifth Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 185–86, 196–98; first Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 146; railroad nationalization and, 190; on Russian reparations, 172–73; on Schiff, 196–97; second Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 161
Rothschilds (Paris), 141; fifth Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 185–86, 196–98; Japan’s recognition of, 195; Russo-Japanese War and, 188
Royal Dutch Petroleum, 322 rural economic development, 97, 267, 302, 304, 317–21; fiscal policies and, 262; Takahashi government and, 229; world depression and, 249 rural relief, 275, 294, 303; Saitō government and, 280; world depression and, 239
Russia, 56; anti-Semitism and, 150, 152–54, 156, 323–35; Baltic Fleet and, 173, 178; bonds and, 166; fear of intervention by, 126; indemnity and, 174, 181–84, 196; Liaodong leasehold and, 124–25; reparations and, 172; Russo-Japanese War and, 143, 146, 160
Index

| Russo-Japanese War, 7; Anglo-American assistance and, 156–57; capital and, 113; cost of, 145; economic philosophy and, 304; factors in Japan’s victory, 188; foreign borrowing and, 321–22; fundraising for, 141–42; Japan’s victories in, 170, 176; loans and, 168; peace negotiations and, 172–73, 177, 181–83; Takahashi’s letters on, 174; youthful influences and, 36. See also bonds |
| Samuel, Marcus, 148–49; Shell Oil and, 322n15 |
| samurai, 4, 15–18; American voyage and, 21–22; ashigaru class of, 13; ashigaru pride and, 44–45; domain schools and, 11, 313n24; economic philosophy and, 301; English language and, 20; epistolary style of, 23; income of, 9; indentured servitude and, 28–30; investment by, 121; Karatsu school and, 47–48; loss of status and, 10; lowest strata of, 1; return to Japan and, 34–35; right to carry swords and, 314n1; American voyage and, 21–23; fall of Tokugawa shogunate and, 32 |
| Sano Tsunetami, 127; early career and, 58 |
| Satō Kazuo, 240; world depression and, 249 |
| Satō Momotarō, 19, 36–37; American voyage and, 23; fall of Tokugawa shogunate and, 32; indentured servitude and, 30 |
| Sauerbach-Tarman, 184 |
| Saxonhouse, Gary, 329n4 |
| Say, Leon, 127 |
| Sayama Seiichi, 33 |
| Schenking, Charles, 218 |
| Schiff, Frieda, 153, 179, 232 |
| Schiff, Jacob, 5–6, 141, 149–57; “accidental meeting” with, 149; background of, 149–50; decorations granted to, 167, 194; deification of Tōgō and, 325–26n1; economic philosophy and, 302, 304–5; fifth Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 184, 196, 198–99; financial reality |
financial reality and, 167; on financial responsibility, 174; first Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 149–57; fourth Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 177–79; friendship with Cassel, 153; Kahn and, 322n8; Kuhn, Loeb and, 325n27; on loan fund depositing, 176; Lord Rothschild on, 196–97; negotiations with, 7; Our Journey to Japan, 326n6; railroads and, 192; on reparations, 172; on Russo-Japanese peace treaty, 182; Russo-Japanese war and, 188; second Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 161, 163–64; Speyer and, 324n45; support for Japan, 152, 155–57, 163; Takahashi’s letters to, 209–11; Takahashi visits with, 166; Takahashi Wakiko and, 196; third Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 170; visits Japan, 192–96

Schiff, Mortimer, 166

Schiff, Therese, 149; Takahashi visits with, 166

Schuyler Duryee: patent law travels and, 66–70; at Coney Island together, 134

Seiyū Hontō (Real Seiyū Party), 232, 235; Financial Panic of 1927 and, 236

Seiyūkai party: autarchy and, 260; 1936 budget and, 292; constitutional government and, 231–32, 234–35; democratic politics and, 321n32; European travels and, 72; Financial Panic of 1927 and, 236–37; fiscal policies and, 254–56, 261; gold standard and, 241; Hara government and, 214–18; naval procurement scandal and, 205; Okada government and, 288; railroads and, 190; rice riots and, 213; rise of militarism and, 269; Taishō Political Crisis and, 203–4; Takahashi government and, 224–25, 227, 230; Takahashi line and, 295; Yamamoto government and, 201–2

Sendai domain, 10–11, 13; English language and, 20–21; fall of Tokugawa shogunate and, 32; late-Edo education and, 15–18; return to Japan and, 33–35

Shand, Alexander Allan, 4; decorations received by, 159; English language and, 20; first Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 144–49, 151, 155; fourth Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 180; Parr’s Bank and, 323n27; second Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 160–63; Takahashi’s friendship with, 132–33; youthful influences and, 36–37
Shandong Peninsula, 206–7; rise of militarism and, 272; Takahashi government and, 226
Shell Oil, 188; economic philosophy and, 304; Japan’s recognition of, 195; Samuel and, 322n15
Sherman, A. J., 323n33
Shibusawa Eiichi, 129; poem by, 169; Schiff’s trip to Japan and, 192, 194
Shidehara Kijūrō, 5; autarchy and, 259; rise of militarism and, 272
Shimonoseki, Honshu, 120–22, 130; Sino-Japanese War and, 123; treaty negotiations in, 123–24
Shinagawa Yajirō, 116; European travels and, 74; Industrial Bank debate and, 92
Shinti (grandfather), 11–13
Shinobu Seizaburō, 80, 220
Shizume, Masato, 200
Siberian Intervention: constitutional government and, 234; Hara government and, 214; postwar hard landing and, 217; rise of militarism and, 272; Takahashi government and, 226; Takahashi writings and, 219–20 silk production, 129; European travels and, 74–75; fiscal policies and, 256; letter to Katsura and, 175; United States and, 313n12; world depression and, 247–50 silver futures: early career and, 57–58
silver mine in Peru, 98–102; aftermath of, 115–17; failure of, 108–14; operation of, 102–8; Peruvian friendship and, 319n26; Tajima report and, 108–12
Sino-Japanese War, 122–27; ceasefire of, 124, 126; indemnity and, peace treaty, 120, 123–26
Skidelsky, Robert, 4
social dumping, 239, 265
Sōdōmei (labor union), 284
Soeda Juichi, 129
Sone Arasuke, 7, 143; negotiation with capitalists and, 324n6; Takahashi reports on bonds to, 167; Takahashi’s letter to, 173–76
Sonoda Kōkichi, 127; European travels and, 71–73
sōrōbun (samurai epistolary style), 23; samurai education and, 313n24; youthful influences and, 37
South Manchuria Railway Company, 283
Soviet Communism: A New Civilization (Webb): Takahashi line and, 297
Soviet Union, 37, 279–80, 282; airplane production and, 332n5; Siberian intervention and, 219; Takahashi government and, 215–16, 226
“Speaking of First Principles of Economics: Concerning Our Country’s Production,” (Takahashi), 227–28 specie, 212; fiscal policies and, 255; interest rates and, 258 specie crisis of 1911, 201
speculation, 184; early career and, 57, 59; fiscal policies and, 255–56; interest rates and, 257; world depression and, 251; speeches, repetition in, 319–90; spending, 2–4, 6, 138, 188; after Russo-Japanese War, 183, 200–1; 1936 budget and, 288–92, 290; constitutional government and, 234; democratization and, 202–4; economic philosophy and, 299–300, 305; fiscal policies and, 256, 262; frugality and, 245; gold standard and, 241; interest rates and, 258; national defense and, 210–11; Okada government and, 284–85, 287; opposition to militarism and, 273–76; postwar hard landing and, 217–18; productivity of, 200; rise of militarism and, 269–72; Saitō government and, 278–79, 281; Takahashi as finance minister and, 205–6; Takahashi government and, 226–27; Takahashi line and, 294–98; Takahashi on, 189; world depression and, 239, 249
Speyer, James, 166; Schiff and, 324/45
Speyer Brothers, 165; fourth Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 177; third Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 170–71 standard of living, 189, 201–2; Hara government and, 214; interest rates and, 257; primary task of government and, 299; rise of militarism and, 270;
Takahashi’s views on, 138; youthful influences and, 38
state, concept of, 80
state monopoly capitalism: rise of militarism and, 269 Stillman, James, 153, 176; first Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 144 stock market, 58, 284; world depression and, 239, 247, 251
Storry, Richard, 260
Suematsu Kenchō, 51
Sugiyama Hajime: 1936 budget and, 293–94
Sugiyama Heisuke, 76
Sumitomo Corporation, 121
Sumiya Mikio, 249
Suzuki Shin’ichi, 292
Suzuki Shōten, 235–36, 283–84
Suzuki Tomoo, 55–56; American voyage and, 22; English language and, 19–21; fall of Tokugawa shogunate and, 32; indentured servitude and, 31; Late-Edo education and, 18; return to Japan and, 33–35; servitude contract and, 26; Van Reeds and, 25; youthful influences and, 36
Suzuki Toshio, 198
Taishō democracy, 201, 220
Taishō Political Crisis, 203–4
Taiwan Bank, 236; Okada government and, 283–84
Tajima Haruo, 98–102, 115–17; failure of, 113–14; falsified report and, 108–12; Peru and, 99; silver mine operation and, 103–7
Tajiri Inajirō, 120, 129
Takada Shinzō, 109
Takagi Saburō, 31–32; raw silk production and, 313; youth-ful influences and, 36
Takahashi Chokuemon, 13
Takahashi government, 2, 224–35; constitutional government and, 231–35; restructuring government and, 225–26
Takahashi Kenzō, 125–26
Takahashi Koreaki, 59, 137
Takahashi Korekata, 59, 146
Takahashi Korenobu, 295
Takahashi Koretada (Horie Kaku-ji), 10, 13
Takahashi Koretaka, 59
Takahashi Koreyoshi, 59
Takahashi line (rosen), 284–85
Takahashi Proclamation, 290, 292
Takahashi-Schiff correspondence, 7, 38
Takahashi Shina, 59
Takahashi Shinkichi, 64–65, 83
Takahashi Wakiko, 59, 196
Tale of Genji (Murasaki), 51
Tama Cemetery, 325–26
Tanaka Fujimaro, 51–52
Tanaka Giichi, 234–35; Financial Panic of 1927 and, 236–38; gold standard and, 241; postwar hard landing and, 218–19; rise of militarism and, 269; Takahashi criticism of, 237; Takahashi government and, 231; Takahashi writings and, 222–23
Tani Kanjō, 66, 72, 77
tariff commissioner, possible appointment of, 147 tariffs, 54, 259–60, 282; fiscal policies and, 262

Tatsuno Kingo: Bank of Japan Building and, 117–20; Conder and, 319; Karatsu school and, 48 taxes, 3; 1936 budget and, 290; decentralization of, 225, 229–30; economic effects and, 263; economic philosophy and, 304–6; fiscal policies and, 262; Okada government and, 286; opposition to militarism and, 275–76; positivists and, 199–200; repayment of loans and, 174; Russo-Japanese War and, 177; Saitō government and, 278–80; Takahashi government and, 225, 229–30; Takahashi’s views on, 140, 206 technology, 61, 75, 84, 304; free trade and, 55; military and, 11, 211; patent law travels and, 66; rise of militarism and, 272, 283; Russo-Japanese War and, 188, 195; sericulture and, 175; silver mining and, 107; world depression and, 247
Teijin incident, 284–85, 287–88; rise of militarism and, 283
10,000,000,000 barrier, 286
Terauchi Masatake, 191, 213; China and, 209–10; Siberian Intervention and, 219 theory of effective demand, 306
Third Imperial Guards Regiment, 296
Tisserand, Eugene, 84
tobacco monopoly revenues, 142; fourth Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 180; as hypothecation, 177–78; as security, 170
Index

Tōgō Heihachirō, 192, 195–96, 323n35, 325n1
Tokonami Takejirō, 230–32
Tokugawa shogunate, 10, 82, 122–23, 131; fall of, 32–33; late-Edo education and, 16–17; Meiji Restoration and, 47; Ōwara and, 311n11
Tokunaga Gen’ei, 121
Tokyo asahi shinbun (newspaper), 7; 1936 budget and, 288–91; Okada government and, 292–94; Takahashi line and, 294
Tokyo English Language School, 41
Tōkyō nichinichi, 253
Tomita Tetsunosuke, 24–25, 30–32, 36; American voyage and, 22; fall of Tokugawa shogunate and, 32; financing foreign trade and, 312n21; indentured servitude and, 30–31; Meirokusha and, 315n6; farewell party and, 63
Townsend, A. M., 155, 167; first Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 155
Tōkyō keizai shinpō (East Asian Economic Review), 138; fiscal policies and, 253; gold standard and, 244; opposition to militarism and, 273 Tract on Monetary Reform, A (Keynes): fiscal policies and, 254 trade: with China, 131, 135–36; deficit of, 205, 212; economic philosophy and, 300; European travels and, 75; fiscal policies and, 253; Hara government and, 215; imbalance of, 139; Inoue’s shrinking imbalance of, 330n29; Matsukata and, 312n21; patent law travels and, 64–65; Saitō government and, 282; Takahashi government and, 226; Takahashi writings and, 222 trademark laws, 60–64, 70–74; controversy over, 76–78; early career and, 99; international tour and, 65–69, 72–75 traditional goods, 10, 84; economic philosophy and, 302; European travels and, 75; industrial policy and, 80; patent law travels and, 64–65; Takahashi government and, 229 translation, 50–52; career experiences and, 42; early career and, 56–58; English language and, 51–52; postal service and, 49–50
Treaty of Versailles: Hara government and, 215
Tsukiji Honganji, 297
Tsushima Juichi, 243, 273; end of Takahashi line and, 295–96
Tsushima Straits, 176, 178, 196; deification of Tōgō and, 325n1; economic philosophy and, 304; Tōgō and, 323n35
Twenty-One Demands, 207–9; economic philosophy and, 304; Hara government and, 215; rise of militarism and, 271; Takahashi writings and, 221
Uehara Yūsaku, 203; Takahashi writings and, 219–20
Uetsuka Tsukasa, 307–8
“Umegae’s Washbasin” anecdote, 71–72
unemployment, 3; economic effects and, 264; postwar hard landing and, 218; world depression and, 249
United States, 2–3, 84; Anglo-American framework, 142, 156–57; Anglo-American-Japanese alliance, 226–27; autarchy and, 260; 1936 budget and, 290; China and, 207–9; constitutional government and, 234; cooperation with, 191; developing patent laws and, 61–66, 68–70; early career and, 57; economic effects and, 264, 266; economic order and, 195–96; economic philosophy and, 304–5; English language and, 18, 20–21; financial standards of, 157–58; firebomb raids and, 308; fiscal policies and, 253, 256; free trade and, 54–55; gold standard and, 241–43; Hara government and, 215; immigrants in, 149–50; imperialism and, 126, 207–8; Japanese imperialism and, 122; manufacturing and, 332 n 5; market recession in, 196, 199; opposition to militarism and, 273; patents controversy and, 76; raw silk production and, 313 n 2; return to Japan and, 33, 35; rise of militarism and, 268–69, 271–72, 283; Russo-Japanese War and, 142; Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 144; Saitō government and, 281–82; Takahashi government and, 226–27; Takahashi voyage to, 21–23; Takahashi writings and, 219, 221, 223; travels to, 65–69; Van Reeds and, 24–26; world depression and, 239, 247–48, 250–51; world order of, 189, 208–9 universal suffrage, 2; constitutional government and, 232–33; gold standard and, 241; Hara government and, 216; primary task of government and, 299; Takahashi government and, 225, 230 upward mobility, 11, 16; English language and, 14; Late-Edo education and, 1
Van Reed, Eugene, 24–26; American voyage and, 23; English language and, 21; indentured servitude and, 27–31; youthful influences and, 37
Verbeck, Guido, 4, 42–46, 82–83, 134; Bible and, 315 n 6; early career and, 56; education and, 50; English language and, 53; Karatsu school and, 48; marriage and, 59; missionaries distrust of, 316 n 9; patent law travels and, 64–65; returns to Tokyo and lives with, 49–50 wages, 2; economic recovery and, 264; economic philosophy and, 303; Okada government and, 284; Takahashi government and, 227; world depression and, 249; World War I and, 212
Wakatsuki Reijirō, 235–36; fiscal policies and, 261; gold standard and, 241; negative policies of,
Index

199, 201, 205; world depression and, 250

Wall Street Journal, 156

Warburg, Max: economic philosophy and, 304; fifth Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 186; on financial standards, 175; fourth Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 178–80; Lord Rothschild on, 197; on Russo-Japanese peace treaty, 182; Russo-Japanese War and, 188; third Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 170

Warburg, Paul: Fukai letters to, 232, 234 warships, 129, 157; Russo-Japanese War and, 142, 170, 188, 195–96

Washington, D.C., 193; patent law travels and, 65–69; Verbeck and, 46

Washington Naval Disarmament Conference (1921–22), 224, 226–27, 305

Watanabe Bank: Financial Panic of 1927 and, 236

Webb, Beatrice and Sidney, 37, 297

Western Branch of the Bank of Japan, 120–22

Whalley, R. W., 145–46; decorations received by, 159; first Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 154; second Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 160–62 workers, 3; economic recovery and, 264; economic philosophy and, 305; primary task of government and, 299; Takahashi government and, 227–28; wages of, 212; world depression and, 249

world depression, 2–6, 238–39, 247–51; autarky and, 259–61; dogma and, 331–46; economic recovery from, 263–67; economic philosophy and, 303–4; fiscal policies and, 252–56, 261–62; frugality and, 244–46; gold standard and, 239–43, 246; interest rates and, 257–59; Ishibashi on gold standard and, 330; Okada government and, 286; opposition to militarism and, 274, 276; rise of militarism and, 268–69

World War I, 7; China policy and, 206–10; economic development and, 211–12; Financial Panic of 1927 and, 235–36; gold standard and, 240, 242; military and, 210–11; postwar hard landing and, 216–17

Yagi Yahei, 81

Yalu River, Battle of, 156; Itō and, 312

Yamada estimates, 265

Yamada Naoya, 112

Yamagata, Isaburō, 191

Yamagata Aritomo, 5, 79, 195; constitutional government and, 231; economic philosophy and, 303; government of, 134; naval procurement scandal and, 205; postwar hard landing and, 218; rise of militarism and, 270; Taishō Political Crisis and, 203–4;
Takahashi government and, 224; third Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 168
Yamaguchi Shin, 103–6, 108–9, 111
Yamakawa Yūki, 128, 143, 146–47, 168; fourth Russo-Japanese War bonds, 180
Yamamoto Gonnohyōe: constitutional government and, 231; as navy minister, 135; as Prime Minister, 201, 203–5; Takahashi government and, 231
Yamamoto Tatsuo, 135–36; financial policy of, 138; negative policies of, 199, 201; Takahashi disagrees with, 139; Takahashi government and, 224–26
Yamanashi Hanzō, 227
Yokohama, 7; American voyage and, 22; early career and, 57; English language and, 19–21; late-Edo education and, 18; return to Japan and, 32–35; Takahashi’s carousing in, 20;
Verbeck and, 42, 46; world depression and, 248–49; youthful influences and, 36–37
Yokohama Specie Bank (shōgin): branch offices of, 130–34; as a “City Bank,” 134–36, 139; exchange rate and, 136–37; fifth Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 198; first Russo-Japanese War bonds and, 143, 146–47, 149, 155; fiscal policies and, 255; management of, 127–30; Parr’s Bank and, 132; rise of militarism and, 271; Takahashi joins, 127–30. See also Yamakawa Yūki
Yokota Sennosuke, 215–16, 225, 231–35
Yoshida Kiemon, 76–77
Yukō (Kanze school), 312a22
Zhang Zhidong, 210
Zhang Zuolin, 223
Zōjōji (Buddhist temple), 9; return to Japan and, 34–35