

Contents

List of Figures	ix
Acknowledgments	xi
Conventions	xiii
Map of Tang China	xv
Introduction	i
The Transformation of Medieval Elites	3
Tomb Epitaphs as a Historical Source	13
1 The Bureaucratic Aristocracy of Medieval China	27
Clan Lists and the Classification of the Great Clans	29
The Demographic Expansion of the Medieval Aristocracy	36
The Geographic Dispersal of Great Clan Descendants	44
Bureaucratized Aristocrats	61
Conclusion	67
2 The Geography of Power	70
Localizing Elites	72
Capital Elites	82
National Elites in the Provinces	88
Other Elite Migratory Pathways	98
Conclusion	105
3 The Capital Elite Marriage Network	107
Reconstructing Patriline	108
Localizing Patriline	113
Geographic Distribution and Size of the Late Tang Political Elite	119
The Social Landscape of the Capitals	122
Marriage Networks and Social Capital	129
Conclusion	141
4 The Late Tang Provinces	146
The Late Tang Provincial System and the Hebei Autonomous Provinces	149
Recentralization after the Xianzong Restoration	155

The Tang Political Oligarchy and the Provinces	160
Social Mobility in Provincial Governments	170
Provincial Cultures	178
Conclusion	185
5 Huang Chao and the Destruction of the Medieval Aristocracy	187
Chang'an under Huang Chao	191
Devastation in Luoyang and the Provinces	206
The Demise of the Tang Elite	218
The Survivors and the New Structure of Power	231
Conclusion	235
Appendix A: Guide to the Accompanying Database	243
Appendix B: Estimating the Total Size of the Late Tang Capital Elite	248
Appendix C: Sources of Ninth-Century Excavated Epitaphs	250
Bibliography	253
Personal Name Index	265
General Index	275